1 INTRODUCTION

People communicate with each other by committing conversation. According to (Pridham, 2013), conversation is any interactive spoken exchange between two or more people and it can be face-to-face exchanges which can be private conversation, such as talk at home between the family, or more public and ritualized conversations such as classroom talk or Question Time in the Houses of Parliament. Meanwhile, non-face-to-face exchanges can be telephone conversations, and broadcast materials such as a live radio phone-in or a television chat show. Language makes people enable to transfer the message, ideas, feeling or thought. Delivering the ideas when we communicate to the other must be clear in order to be received well because the good communication happened if the speaker and the listener can get the meaning appropriately.

One of the most important issues which is interested to discuss when making a conversation to the other is politeness. Politeness is a general aspect of the social behavior to a speaker towards deferent wishes of the addressee in different concerns. (Asih Arisena & Idawati, 2021). The politeness was not only for one group society, but also it was for everyone in all conditions that using language as their tools in daily conversation in order to make a good social interaction with other people in their life. (Winerta, 2012).

English linguists, (Brown & Levinson, 1987) introduced some of prominent strategies used to point out the differences of maximizing in exchanges, for example using formal way to address or an indirect speech acts. The aim of these strategies is to fulfil required particular goals. One of the major terms of these strategies is a face that shows the speaker's public image and it is divided into two major types: Positive face and Negative face. Positive face shows the individual's wishes and can be appreciated as well as respected by others. Positive politeness strategy refers to that S performs FTA with redressive action which is directed to the H's positive face, for example, Wash the dishes, honey (Xafizovna, 2022). Negative face shows the unrestricted wish in set of choices to speaker about social behavior. Negative face is our wish not to be imposed on by others and to be allowed to go about our business unimpeded (Utami, 2014)

Based on Brown and Levinson's Politeness Strategies there are five types of politeness strategies. There are several rules and principles that regulate how people speak and behave. Brown and Levinson offer a descriptive analysis of strategies used by the participants to maintain their respective faces in social interaction. Brown and Levinson sum up human politeness behavior in five strategies: bald on record, positive politeness, negative politeness, off-record, and no FTA strategy (Angel Isabella et al., 2022).

In bald on record strategy, FTA is performed "in the most direct, clear, unambiguous, and concise way possible" (Brown & Levinson, 1987) The bald on-record does nothing to minimize threats to the hearer's 'face. Positive face refers to every individual's basic desire for their public self-image that wants to be shown engagement, ratification, and appreciation from others the want to be wanted, while the negative politeness also recognizes the hearer's face. However, it also admits that the speaker is in some way imposing on the hearer. This is the most common and linguistically diverse strategy. Negatively polite constructions contain negative face by demonstrating distance and wariness. Negative face refers to the desire to see one's action unimpeded by others (Siburian, 2016). In addition, Off-record (indirect) takes some of the pressure off of the speaker. Its utterances are indirect uses of language which precise meaning has to be interpreted.

Lastly, the FTA is too threatening to the intended recipient. Therefore, in the interests of social harmony. The speakers entirely avoid performing the FTA perfectly to avoid threat to another's face. Speakers choose this strategy when they estimate the threat to another's face is extremely high.

Analyses about politeness strategy is one of interested thing to do in a literary work, some researchers have been conducted similar study such as Widyastuti entitled The Analysis of Politeness Strategy Used By The Main Character Of Novel The Sun Also Rises. The researcher analyzed the utterances in order to find out the types of politeness strategies used by the main characters. In this research, the researcher used descriptive qualitative by using documentation and observation method of collecting data from the novel. From the analysis of the novel, showed that the main character in The Sun also rises applied the types of politeness strategies, namely bald on record, positive politeness, negative politeness and off record. The main characters also revealed the factors affecting the characters' politeness in speaking, namely language style, register and domain, slang and solidarity, language and gender in their conversation. Next research conducted by Indah Eftanastarini entitled Analysis of politeness strategies in command used by main characters in movies entitled "facing the giants", "dangerous minds", and "the ron clark story". The aims of the study are to identify the types of sentences in command, the applied of politeness strategies, and to investigate the factors that influence the main characters in applying politeness strategies in command. The data were politeness utterances in command used by main character in 3 drama movies: "Facing the Giants", "Dangerous Minds", and "The Ron Clark Story". The data were analyzed using politeness strategies purposed by Brown and Levinson (1987). The results of this study shown that there are 2 forms of command: declarative sentence and imperative sentence. The characters applied 2 types of politeness strategy in giving command: bald on record (24 data) and positive politeness (4 data). The factors that influenced the main characters in applying politeness strategies in command were the main characters, as the speakers, have higher status than the hearers, the size of imposition between the speakers and the hearers were small, and the situation were urgent and emergency in which the speakers and the hearers involved. Last research conducted by By christina Suryani, Clarry Sada, Dwi Riyanti entitled An Analysis Of Politeness Strategies Used By The Characters In The Blind Side Movie The aim of this study was to find out what politeness strategies are implemented by the characters in the context of various role relationship in The Blind Side movie and the contexts that affect the choice of politeness strategies used by the characters. In this research, the researcher used the theory of politeness strategies proposed by Brown and Levinson (1987) and the Ethnography of Speaking proposed by Dell Hymes (1964). Through the transcript of The Blind Side movie, observation and note taking, the data was collected. The subject of the research was ten characters in The Blind Side movie who have various role relationships. The research was done by observing and analyzing the contexts used by the characters, then based on the contexts the researcher interprets what politeness strategies used by the characters in The Blind Side movie. It can be concluded that there were four politeness strategies applied by the characters, they were Balad on Record strategy, Negative Politeness strategy, Off-Record strategy and Positive Politeness strategy. Furthermore, there were four contexts of situation affect the characters in choosing the politeness strategy. The four contexts were participants, ends, settings and keys.

The researchers above undertake analyses about politeness strategy in novel while the current research carried out analysis of main character in movie same as christina Suryani but different movie.

Based on the background of the study, the objective of this study is to describe the types of politeness strategies employed by the main characters inin the spongebob movie: sponge on the run. This problem becomes interesting since the characters are best friends who have close relationship. They use a variety of politeness strategies in delivering their ideas in order to make an effective communication.

2 RESEARCH METHOD

It is the third film in the SpongeBob Square Pants released on March 4, 2021. The researchers w used qualitative method as the method because I use journals and theories that have already existed in books and internet as references. And also, the data were collected by conducting several steps.

1. The movie was watched carefully in order to find the proper information needed for answering the research objectives
2. While the movie was watched, I also read the movie-script in order to check the accuracy of the script.
3. The dialogues consisting politeness strategies were interpreted and identified.
4. The data is analysed in table form
