Abstrack : The Sexual Violence Law (UU TPKS) which contains important and strategic legal politics and is a breakthrough in legal renewal and protection of the community, this regulation is expected to answer various problems of sexual violence that continue to occur in various modes. The results of the 2021 National Women's Life Experience Survey conducted by the Ministry of PPPA, the Central Statistics Agency and the Demographic Institute of the University of Indonesia found that 1 in 19 women (aged 15-64 years) had experienced sexual violence other than their partners. Of course, with the existence of these regulations and regulations, it is hoped that it will be able to be accepted by the community, especially among young people as the spearhead of the civilization and progress of the Indonesian nation, especially the youth group in the Sukasari village environment, this is an encouragement so that young people in the Sukasari village environment understand and are able to be protectors for themselves and their closest environment about the latent dangers of sexual violence so as not to become victims of this crime. Of course, with this purpose, the method that will be applied is to socialize the newly legalized laws and regulations regarding the crime of sexual violence, and to assist pinyitas and form an integrated service post for assistance to youth and the community. From this effort, it is hoped that youth groups and the community will have an understanding and increase knowledge of laws and regulations related to sexual violence, on the other hand, the existence of an integrated service post is able to accompany the community and youth who are victims as well as the community can be actively involved as a moral movement for the prevention of sexual violence. this is certainly a great hope for the community to be able to implement it in daily life in the community.

1. INTRODUCTION

Sukasari Village has a fairly high potential for youth development and also a fairly large number of young marriages coupled with a fairly significant increase in divorce rates, the problem of sexual violence also often occurs because the maturity and association in the Sukasari village environment is very potential for sexual violence, plus the environment in the area of sukasari many night entertainment venues this is certainly very potential the occurrence of sexual violence carried out in the form of nonphysical sexual harassment, physical sexual abuse, coercion of contraception, forced sterilization, forced marriage, sexual torture, sexual exploitation, sexual slavery, and electronic-based sexual violence, considering that the existing associations and environment have the potential to occur these actions.

Attention to the development of youth groups and parents in Sukasari village, especially in the problem of prevention and handling of victims of sexual violence is still very minimal, even public knowledge related to laws and regulations regarding the crime of sexual violence is very limited, it is very coherent with various studies that with a lack of knowledge and lack of early prevention resulting in the crime of sexual violence rampant and unstoppable, if we look at the results of research and surveys conducted by Kompas, that cases of sexual violence that occur in a number of areas become an iceberg phenomenon.

Data from the Online Information System for the Protection of Women and Children (Symphony PPA) from 2021 to March 17, 2022 shows, of the 8,478 cases of violence against women, 1,272 cases of which are sexual violence. Of the 11,952 cases of violence against children, 7,004 cases (58.6 percent) of them were sexual violence. This section can also give the expected results. The introduction should be written in a single-line space. The introduction consists of: Analysis of the general (global) situation and followed by a description of the main problems of the target community. The author must explain that the problem is a problem related to the 17 goals/169 SDGs.

Seeing the potential of young people as the spearhead of national change, of course, the problems that often occur must immediately find solutions and early prevention, seeing the demographic location of Sukasari village is an area of night entertainment and hospitality business which is certainly very side by side with the activities of young people in the environment, so that the potential for sexual violence encouraged from association in the environment and the establishment of an active treknology is very potential the occurrence of sexual violence and this is also due to the lack of prepeptive measures to prevent and handle the perpetrators of sexual violence. In fact, the potential of young people and youth groups in the Sukasari village environment is very creative and also active in various activities and community activities.

2. METHODS

Community service activities are carried out by lecturers of the Faculty of Law, Pakuan University in Sukasari village, East Bogor to increase understanding of the importance of preventing and eradicating sexual violence crimes by providing socialization of laws and regulations and carried out with several approaches carried out jointly, namely:

1. Counseling, this method is carried out on mentoring activities. The service implementation team provided material with a lecture method accompanied by questions and answers and tutorials to help the service participants.
2. Assistance and guidance for service participants are carried out periodically by establishing integrated service posts for survivors of sexual violence in order to help restore bad secological pressures for the better.
3. Workshops related to the internet are good and a healthy environment and a good culture so as not to invite acts of sexual violence, this is a preventive effort so that youth groups can use good and positive social media and are able to recognize and integrate with the environment so as not to follow the excessive development of western culture.
4. Campaigning the Movement against Acts of sexual violence with the tagline campaign My movement is bold which involves all elements of society, both young people and mothers in the sukasari village environment.

3. RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

Based on the activities designed based on the findings of the problem in the field, we take steps as a solution to the problem, namely:

- 1) Providing massive socialization in the form of guidance, assistance to young people and school-age children in the active use of technology and the internet to prevent those who access the internet incorrectly.
- 2) Providing education and assistance to parents to be able to supervise school-age children and young people to use the internet both for learning purposes and to increase creativity.
- 3) Encouraging the establishment of a guided service post which is expected to be a forum for youth groups and children to increase literacy and knowledge about sexual violence as well as prefintiv prevention efforts
- 4) Conducting guidance and assistance related to things that are able to encourage the occurrence of acts of sexual violence crimes including culture and ethics of dressing which must be provided education so as not to invite acts of sexual violence.
- 5) Socialization of sexual violence laws to the community and youth groups in order to provide a good and comprehensive understanding of efforts to prevent, handle and eradicate sexual violence crimes
- 6) Providing socialization to the community, especially parents, to pay special attention to children in order to have good associations and refract to engage in intensive social activities
- 7) Providing assistance and understanding of early marriage and mental preparation for youth groups before carrying out marriages which is expected to reduce the level of divorce and sexual violence in the sukasari village.

On the basis of the various solutions and activities carried out above, it is necessary to carry out further assistance, and guidance for the community and youth groups related to the law on sexual violence crimes massively and comprehensively with a record of periodic socialization and establishing an integrated service post as a place of guidance and guidance for the community and youth groups in the Sukasari village environment who want to consult.

4. CONCLUSION

Gender and human rights awareness, the government and law enforcement in particular and the general public are needed to ensure that this law works optimally, which is then expected to ratify the TPKS Law really become a momentum to prevent and eliminate sexual violence from Indonesia.

From the service activities that are carried out, of course, many things are found in the field, especially the good response from the participants how basic knowledge about prevention is needed, at least it can be concluded that basically the victim does not realize that the action received is an act of harassment, the second is the tendency of the victim who is a victim of sexual violence or harassment actually does not have the courage to report or tell stories with the closest people, this is obviously very worrying so we are still very passionate about providing more education and this program can be a sustainable program.

And it is hoped that with the issuance of this law, of course, it must be welcomed and able to be accepted by the community, this is what supports the importance of direct socialization to the community as an education as well as a prefintiv umpaya to the community
